'expense of building' is in many respects erroquently largely below the actual value of the thing contemplated. It is but seldom that an amount is stated, sufficient for the purposes contemplated. More is generally asked for than can possibly be obtained for the sum named, without loss to some one-if the attempt is made to comply with the demand made. Two prominent facts in this connection are worthy of otice, first that thousands of failures, ending n pro ratio settlements, have occurred in San Francisco, not so much by the wastage and quandering of contract moneys as from absolute shortage in the contract amount, less than actual values. The bread-and-butter price at which the work is undertaken will not permit every particular, nor permit less than slavish attention to the work in hand. The profit margins are as a rule inadequate to the slightest indulgence other than close application in time and personal labor, and attention on the part of the contractor; and it is only by the exercise of every saving possibility that a majority of buildings are completed, with money enough to pay the bills for material and labor.

"The Trags" Leading Article. - Extract from to London Times: - Passing by a crowd of minor tions, we come upon the exhibit of the Waltham Watch Company, which, in economical importance, s perhaps superior to anything else shown. The ivalry of the watches of this Company has already been felt by our own makers, and a hesitating at tempt was made last session, in the interest of the Covenity manufacturers, to prevent the watch mases of the Company receiving the English stamp which certifies that they are made of gold. It would seem that the Waltham Watches may defy ill attempts to exclude them in this indirect way their first claim to public approval was derived rom the extraordinary nicety of their construction they were made with such perfect exactitude that he parts of all watches of the same class could be nterchanged, and, production being thus made ossible on a large scale, cheapness as well as excelous to the departure of the Emperor for Moscow, nce was secured. But the Company have gor an explosion occurred under the washetand and n introducing improvements in their art, and the compensation balance they have devised seems to have overcome the standing difficulty of the vary ing expansibility of the spring and the wheel. It is said that the delicacy of construction of the mechanism invented by the Company is such that a micrometer they exhibit at Paris measures the twenty-five-thousandth part of an inch, and might readily be divided under a lens into one-hundred thousandth parts.
